Earn Your Associate Degree Online On Your Own Schedule.

According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, those with an associate degree generally enjoy more advanced career opportunities, higher pay and greater job stability than those with less education. Carrington College's Health Studies program provides an opportunity for individuals to earn an associate degree while gaining valuable career experience.

Graduates of a Carrington College certificate program can further their education by enrolling in the Health Studies program. And, students who completed a minimum of 24 semester credit hours at an approved post-secondary institution may also be eligible to enroll.

Carrington College's Health Studies program allows students to study online at times that fit their schedules. Online learning can be a convenient way to continue your education while gaining valuable career experience.

Earning an associate degree via this online degree-completion option requires 24 to 36 semester credit hours of general education courses, depending on credits transferred, that can be completed in 42 weeks or fewer.

According to Nexus Research and Policy Center and the American Institutes for Research (AIR), on average, students with associate degrees earn more income than high school graduates and are less likely to be unemployed, even in harsh economic times.
